

Marge Jenne Reissig: One of the youngest of the Whitmer 1958 graduating class (Feb, 1941), for the last 50 years I've had a life. It has been interesting and dull, successful and unsuccessful, fun and sad - in other words, ordinary and extraordinary.

I've had jobs and careers - from the office of Ohio Bell right after high school, to real estate sales, office management, television commercials (writing and performing), lighting consulting, interior design, the writing-manufacture-and publishing of my book

Meadow Words, and now my digital art originals by Marge Reissig called Summer Grass Art.

I've had three marriages, other engagements, relationships and boyfriends, and now I am pleased to announce my retirement from all of that. I live a very simple life now and enjoy it.

The best part of my life is my children. Steve Hartsel, my son, is 47 and my daughter, Holly Hartsel Reineman is 45. Steve is married, a Commander in the Navy Reserve, and is the CO of a Navy and Marine Training Center near San Diego, CA. They have a son, Connor, and a daughter-soon-to-be. Cindy is a PhD. Physical Therapist who has chosen to stay at home raising the children. Holly and her husband, Kurt Reineman, moved to Holland, MI almost 2 years ago from the East Bay area of San Francisco. They both worked in software at Peoplesoft, he now for Oracle, and she had become a massage therapist and is moving back into corporate life while Kurt continues more schooling to be a Physician's Assistant. They are all well-educated, successful, gorgeous, loving, and most of all wonderful people whom I admire deeply.

Attending Whitmer was a big part of my life. It was safe, everyone respectful, well-organized, just the right size, and the extras were superb - talent shows, the Circus, plays, sports, clubs, proms, etc. were valuable. The teaching staff were really good people who genuinely wanted to provide a good education. The best part of school, though, I must admit, was being social and being interested in boys. Loved that part.

So there you are, an honest and brief description of my life - so far. I look forward to seeing all of you at the reunion, and if we don't recognize each other, let's say hi anyway and try to remember something of our life back then. Everyone one of us. Deal?
